VOL. XXVI.

ATLANTA, GA., MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 5, 1894.

AGAINST INCOME TAX

Senator Hill informs the Committee That
New York's Senators

OPPOSE THAT FEATURE OF THE BILL

The Wilson Bill Will Probably Be Delayed Another Week.

SENATORS DESIRE TO SCRUTINIZE IT

And Mr. Voorhees Will Give Them Time to Do So—Mr. Hill to Make a Long Speech When It Comes Up.

Washington, March 4.—(Special)—There is a possibility that the tariff bill will not be laid before the senate for another week, but only a possibility. Mr. Voorhees has taken the position that as soon as completed the bill will be presented. The republicans, however, are urging the old custom upon the committee which allows the republicans several days of scrutiny. They say they want to examine and discuss the bill before it goes into the open senate. This has been the custom, and custom is a power in the senate. The republicans say that Mr. Voorhees will yield the point, and if do it will be a full week before the bill is reported to the senate.

Hill Will Fight the Income Tax.

There is no doubt now that the New York senators intend to fight, and fight vigorously, the income tax. Mr. Hill served notice to this effect on the committee yesterday. After he had stated his intentions, Mr. Voorhees said to him:

"Well, if you are opposed to the income tax go before the senate, make a speech against it and there let the matter end."

"That is not the way I fight," said Mr. Hill, and after these threats the republicans left the committee room.

Mr. Hill will not talk for publication on his attitude towards the income tax. He will oppose the tax in the senate in a long speech. As understood here, he holds that the income tax is anti-democratic and it made a part of the Wilson bill will cripple the party in every one of the northern states. He contends that the party is not committed to the tax in any way; that no state nor national convention has declared for it, and that it is only urged at this time to meet a deficit which no tariff bill ought to create. The necessity of revenue, he thinks, can be raised in some far more satisfactory way.

What Senator Caffery Says.

This looks as if the report that the New York senators had combined with White and Caffery was true. Mr. Caffery is quoted authoritatively as saying:

"I do not care to discuss the income tax further than to say that the democratic party does not stand pledged to it. I believe in a sugar tax as a question of principle, and, for that matter, whether from one source or another, I regard it as the duty of the democratic party, now that it is charged with full responsibility, to raise a very large amount of revenue."

The story that ten democratic senators had pledged themselves in writing to one another to resist the passage of the Wilson bill, unless their wishes are complied with, is an invention which will fail of its purpose. The finance committee is not yielding to things as transparent as that.

Tuesday's Caucus.

It is not probable that the caucus called for next Tuesday evening to amend the house rules will do anything. The necessity which existed in the mind of the average member for amending the rules has passed with the passage of the Bland Seigniorage bill. It was found in that case that the rule which was inserted in the house code of rules by Speaker Crisp at the beginning of this congress providing for special orders from the committee on rules, worked well, and the general sentiment among the members is that as long as that rule works all right it is best to make no further changes.

There really seems to be but one other change that could be made, and that is to provide some method for counting a quorum. A majority of the democrats are opposed to this, though there are many democrats in the house who think that it would be a wise amendment to the rules. However, this latter class is in the minority, and are not particularly anxious anyway, thus it is probable that the house will go under its present rules unless some great question comes up later in the session over which a long deadlock will result.

Distributing the Seed.

A report from the agricultural department shows that during the last three months nine million packages of seed have been distributed. Each member of congress was given 15,000 packages of ordinary seed, and 1,500 of clover seed.

Secretary Morton says they are not like him that was formerly sent out by the department. He guarantees that all of them will come up, and would like to receive directly from all farmers who have received seed that have not come up.

Will Wait a Few Days.

Senator White has fully recovered from his recent indisposition, but he will not take the oath of office as justice of the supreme court tomorrow. Senator White says this:

"I have not sent my resignation to the governor of Louisiana, and I shall not take the oath of office as justice of the supreme court tomorrow. Justice Jackson is away and will not return for a week, during which time the cases are waiting for a full bench and that would have to be postponed when I take my seat or not. I do not intend to resign, but I have no time to take my place on the bench, when I shall telegraph my resignation to the governor. I shall defer taking the oath for several days."

FORECAST OF WORK

For the Senate and House of Representatives This Week.

Washington, March 4.—The senate will work for the finance committee to act on the tariff bill. The house will continue to make a study of industry on the appropriations bills of atoms for some of its recent bad behavior.

This, in brief, is the probable congressional programme for the present week. There will be all sorts of side motions and discussions to fill up vacant intervals. In the meantime, the Senate is a standing dish and is likely to remain so for some time to come. Senator Caffery, of Louisiana, is one of those who has given notice of an intention to speak on this subject and there is some curiosity to hear his maiden effort at oratory in the senate. However, as Mr. Caffery's name of motion was affected by several days the publication of the testimony taken by Senator Morgan's committee, it is not likely that Mr. Caffery's speech will present any novel points, unless he has very considerably revised it since his first introduction to the Senate. The unfinished business before the Senate will be to remove the existing drapery and to build a new government printing office. Disputes as to sites have hampered the consideration of this measure heretofore, and now, by the remarks of Senator Dolph, of Oregon, on the subject of government expenditures and the whole subject of government expenditures and receipts have been injected into the debate. It is quite possible that the government printing office bill will be made the medium for a continued tariff discussion under the accommodating rules of the senate which permit a man, while nominally addressing the Senate on one subject, to confine his remarks to another to another and entirely different topic.

The Appropriations.

It is expected that the appropriation bills will hold almost undisputed sway in the house. The general debate on the pension bill will be subject to the limitation of the five-minute rule until passed. This stage of proceedings, Mr. O'Neill, of Massachusetts, who is in charge of the measure, hopes and believes will be reached before the end of the afternoon at the earliest. Following this bill, the district of Columbia appropriation bill will be called up and then the sundry civil bill. Consideration of these two measures will doubtless require all the time at presentations, but it does not seem that there are several other committees entangled in the preparation of appropriation bills ready to report. The naval bill, the diplomatic and consular bill and the postal bill are all ready. The morning hour every day will be given to a measure of more or less general interest proposed for action, but the speaker has not been advised of an intention to ask consideration of any particular question.

ARE WORKING FOR CONCESSIONS

But Senators Hill and Murphy Would Not Vote Against the Bill.

Washington, March 4.—Unless the plans of the democratic members of the senate finance committee go all awry the tariff bill will be laid before the full committee Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

About two years ago, however, Mrs. Lederer began to show a disposition to go upon the stage, and as time passed her inclination in this direction increased. Her husband strongly objected to her entering the theatrical profession, but his requests that she abandon the thought appeared only to increase her ambition to become an actress.

After conferring together the greater part of today the democrats believe they have come as near solving the situation as possible, and the intention tonight is to take the first vote at the end of the afternoon, although Mr. Jones wanted the entire question disposed of at yesterday's meeting. The disputed schedules have been so largely discussed and so many tentative propositions considered that it only remains to decide finally which of these shall be incorporated in the bill.

A democratic member of the finance committee discussing the situation in committee and the prospect in the senate tonight talked with him frankly, admiring the fact which other senators have professed not to see.

"We have our head in the lion's mouth," said the senator, "and will be compelled to make the best bargain we can to get it out whole and uninjured. We are victims of the wrath of democrats who are about as good as hypocrites on the earth." He added:

"Morning the other day when I met the committee, the democratic party can never afford not to pass a tariff bill this congress.

The story that ten democratic senators had pledged themselves in writing to one another to resist the passage of the Wilson bill, unless their wishes are complied with, is an invention which will fail of its purpose. The finance committee is not yielding to things as transparent as that.

Tuesday's Caucus.

It is not probable that the caucus called for next Tuesday evening to amend the house rules will do anything. The necessity which existed in the mind of the average member for amending the rules has passed with the passage of the Bland Seigniorage bill. He was the Congressman Had Better Attend to His Own Business.

San Antonio, Tex., March 4. Richard Croker, the Tammany chief, was very wretched yesterday and reported him the publicized dispatches stating that the congressman, in his letter of resignation, had named him as the instigator, promoter, rewarder and upholder of fraudulent vote and election crimes in New York. Mr. Croker, when asked for a statement in answer to Mr. Dunphy's charge, said:

"I will have him meet those charges against me. I will have him meet those charges against me. I will have him meet those charges against me."

"Of Senators Brice, Gorman, Hill, and Murphy, we do not entertain such fears.

They are working hard for concessions, but would hardly vote against the bill when it came to the test. These are the conditions that confront the committee and they are conditions that we must be successful for, as I have said, we cannot afford to wait to invite the certain suspense of the bill in the senate. For that reason, we must report a bill that will bring to it the support of the entire party."

ALL ABOUT ALABAMA

A Reported Split Among Kolbites and Republicans

IN ONE OF THE COUNTIES OF THE STATE

After Mourning a Brother as Dead for Sixteen Years, His Sister Receives a Letter from Him.

Gadsden, Ala., March 4.—(Special)—There has been a split among the Kolbites and republicans in St. Clair county, and as a result the Republicans have nominated a straight-out country ticket for the different ones who will run in the race.

The two-month-old baby of Mrs. James A. Smith, of Jasper, was smothered to death in bed a few days since and the young mother is inconsolable.

Springville, in St. Clair county, thirty-five miles west of Gadsden, has a neat little store to be known as The Spring Lake Herald, with W. A. Lovett as editor and publisher.

White caps are at work in Pike county. A few nights since two negroes were severely beaten and others have been warned to leave the county under the penalty of death.

Dock Hughes and Jim Miller, both colored, engaged in a fight yesterday about some wood Hughes cut off of Miller's land, in which Miller bit and terribly lacerated Hughes's under lip.

In the case of the city court fourteen convictions were had and the parties were sent to Coalburg to do work for the county.

The Nashville board of trade has sent out invitations to the merchants of Gadsden, Attalla, Albertville, Boaz and Guntersville to meet in celebration of the completion of the Tennessee and Coosa division of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road from Gadsden to Birmingham.

Free transportation for ten days has been furnished all who attended by President Thomas. It is estimated that 200 people will be present.

Seventeen years ago James C. Adams, of Etowah county, left Ball Play to come to Gadsden, but he never arrived here. It was thought that he had been lost and his body thrown into the Ball Play swamp, but a thorough search failed to find his body and he was mourned as one dead.

His widow, Mrs. James C. Adams, received a letter from him, stating that he was at present in Arkansas, where he is owned a fine farm, has married and is now well and giving his attention to a mysterious disappearance three years ago.

The Franz Wilcock Concert Company gave two concerts in this city this week for the benefit of the building committee of the First Methodist church, and a neat sum was realized.

A factory for the hoop factory has arrived and is being put in position. Work will be commenced next week.

Hon. William C. Gandy, candidate for the democratic gubernatorial nomination, will speak in this city on the 8th. Etowah's delegation will undoubtedly go for

In Pallard's bend, Cherokee county, yesterday, a little girl of Ack Knighton was fatally burned. She was standing too near the fire, which had been carelessly ignited and she was literally burned alive.

Mannie Knox, a two-year-old colored girl, living in McGhee's bend, Cherokee county, both hands burned on one day this week.

A little son of Chet Nelson, living near Blackland, about eight miles above Gadsden, was shot by John Bates, his brother-in-law, two days since. Mr. Bates went out hunting. The boy following, when the trigger of the gun caught a limb and discharged it, was shot in the head, producing almost instant death.

JOHNSTON'S POSITION.

He Declares He Does Not Antagonize the National Administration.

Birmingham, Ala., March 4.—(Special)—The friends of Colonel Oates and Mr. Rich are making political capital out of the charge that Joseph F. Johnston, Birmingham's candidate for the democratic nomination, is not in sympathy with the national administration.

The fact that Captain Johnston is not in accord with the views of Mr. Cleveland on some of the important issues has furnished what foundation the charges have had in fact.

Captain Johnston in a speech at Roanoke, Alab., may have stated his position in this manner as follows:

"The charge that I am attacking the administration is without excuse or justification.

"It is well known that Mr. Cleveland's position on the money question was a great disappointment to me. I had hoped that he would carry out his platform as interpreted by our speakers and papers before the election, and recommend legislation that would give us the coinage of silver on equal terms with gold and the repeal of the 20 per cent tax.

"When he sent his message to congress, and before any legislation was had, I expected him to stand on this question, and I had a right to do. The democratic party believes in free speech. Every measure recommended by the president and government is not necessarily to be adopted and made an article of faith. Every democrat has the right to discuss it freely. I exchanged my views with him.

"The president has done many things that all of us approve, and I believe he is an honest, conscientious and able man. He is influenced by his environments. His section of the country has not had the financial dagger in its heart and felt the need for a large amount of money to do what he believes in. Every democrat has the right to do what he believes in. I have had no occasion to change my views with him.

THE POLICE "CALLED"

And the Macon Boys Quietly Laid Down Their Hands.

THE BOYS CONTINUE TO PLAY POKER

Notwithstanding the Laws Against Gambling, A Woman with Two Husbandas, Mr. Atkinson Expected in Macon.

Macon, Ga., March 4.—(Special)—Despite reports to the contrary there has still gambling in Macon. Grand juries may find true bills and judges may impose maxims, but the boys will still have a little fun occasionally. It is true that faro, keno, roulette are among the lost arts, but poker remains on deck.

This morning at 2 o'clock Chief of Police, Captain, Lieutenant Carnes and Murphy, Patrolmen Charley Mosley and Bazemore, and Detective Jenkins made a raid on a room over the Wall street bar and arrested nine white men around a poker table. The game was in full blast at the time. The officers put in their appearance. The door of the room was closed, but when the police arrived at a skeleton key was applied, the door was unlocked and the raiders entered. The gamblers were taken completely by surprise, but they made no resistance and went quietly with the officers to the city hall, where they gave security and were released for their appearance at recorder's court tomorrow morning. In the party arrested was a young white fellow only seventeen years old.

Besides the gamblers the police found 196 in the "kafé" and about $3 in the "take-out." Forty or fifty packs of cards were obtained and about three decks of poker chips.

At the hearing before the recorder tomorrow the parties will be bound over to court.

The Criminal Docket.

Tomorrow morning the criminal docket will be taken up in the United States court. There are fifty or sixty cases on the docket, but it is not known how many will be tried. There are several very important distilled cases to be heard. The most important case on the docket is that against ex-Postmaster John Roberts, of Sandersville, charged with illegally issuing postage stamps in other cities for the purpose of increasing his salary by an increase in commissions. The particulars of this case were published in full in The Constitution a few days ago. This is the case in which Mr. Roberts, as his defense, appointed a special assistant attorney, and because of these appointment the demerits of Bibb county held their indignation mass meeting Saturday.

Tomorrow the grand and traverse juries will be sworn in and Judge Spear will deliver his charge to the grand jury.

Atkinson May Speak.

Hon. W. Y. Atkinson is expected to reach Macon tonight or in the morning on an informal visit. While here he may decide to appoint a date sometime in the future on which to address the people of Bibb county. Mr. Atkinson very much desired to have one of the joint discussions with General Evans at Macon, but since this now seems impossible, Mr. Atkinson may speak here alone. If he does he will be greeted by a large audience, for the people of this community desire very much to hear him.

She Has Two Husbands.

Lizzie Menard, of Bibb county, has suddenly become confronted with the paradoxical fact of possessing two legal husbands, and the world is wondering what will become of Clark Hendrick, and for this purpose has filed her petition for divorce in the office of the clerk of Bibb superior court. She states that as Lizzie Morris she was married to Clark Hendrick in December, 1882. They lived together until December, 1888, when her husband was convicted of assault with intent to murder and was sentenced to the penitentiary for six years. In December, 1888, the new came to the fact that her husband had been killed in the coal mines by a pile of coal falling upon him. She mourned for his as dead for a season, and then in May, 1889, married Wesley Menard, as she fully believed that her first husband, Clark Hendrick, was no longer on this earth. The petition for divorce recites the above and then says: "To the great horror and astonishment of your petitioner, this has come to her knowledge that her husband Menard was killed in the coal mines and was never reported, but a short time since served out his sentence and has returned to Bibb to see his wife and finds her wedded to another. His wife, however, prefers her second husband and files a petition for divorce from husband No. 1. She says she has had no children by either husband."

Bishop Nelson in Macon.

Bishop Nelson, of the Episcopal diocese of Georgia, preached and administered the rite of confirmation this morning at St. Paul's church and tonight at Christ church. The services were unusually interesting. During the services that have continued for the past two weeks about thirty additions have been made to the membership of the church.

The church was largely attended today. The weather was beautiful and all who could availed themselves of the opportunity to attend. The revival services at the First Baptist church, which were unusually interesting. During the services that have continued for the past two weeks about thirty additions have been made to the membership of the church.

Tonight Rev. Braxton Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached the first in his series of sermons on the "Life of Christ," the subject being, "The Beginning of His Work."

Rev. Dr. J. C. Carroll, recently of Alpharetta, preached his first sermon at the First Baptist church. He is an able and eloquent preacher and possesses qualities that will make him dear to all who know him.

A special sermon was preached this morning at South Macon Baptist church to the ## Personal and Social.

Mrs. Badgley, of Albany, N. Y., nee Miss Clara Dunlap, is visiting relatives in the city.

Mrs. W. W. Patterson, of Virginia, is visiting Mrs. J. W. Rankin, of Atlanta, her sister.

Mrs. James H. Blount, Jr., has returned from a trip to the West.

Miss Clara Moreland, of Atlanta, is in the city. She will be a bridesmaid at Miss Flanders' marriage.

Miss Gertrude, of Marietta, is visiting at Mrs. Flanders'.

Miss Adelade Harris has returned from a trip to St. Louis. Miss Harris is one of the most beautiful of the Central City.

Miss Mattie Williams, of Waco, Tex., has returned home after a delightful visit to Miss Hatcher.

The most brilliant society event of the month was the annual meeting of the Flanders' family, which was held in the home of Mrs. Flanders, of Gainsville, at the First Baptist church next Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was a great success and has been out only one season, but it has been a great beauty during that short time by reason of her wonderful beauty, graces and accomplishments. The groom-elect is a highly esteemed and popular young gentleman. On the evening before the marriage the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Flanders, will entertain relatives and the bridegroom's friends at a dinner.

This marriage will be a happy one.

The officers put in their appearance at recorder's court tomorrow morning. The door of the room was closed, but when the police arrived at a skeleton key was applied, the door was unlocked and the raiders entered.

Hon. James DuPree, of Macon county, has been in the city several days as attorney in the Gunn case. He represented the attorney general in the case, and is the guardian of Miss Julia Gunn, of Colquitt county. Hon. James DuPree has many friends here who always give him a cordial welcome. Colonel DuPree's name is frequently mentioned in connection with the most prominent honors in the third district, but it is not known if he will be a candidate against Congressman Crisp. He can no doubt be counted among the race whenever Mr. Crisp retires from it.

Hon. Bob Smith is in the city. Colonel Smith is one of the most influential men and a leader in the Colquitt county. He is a political power in his section.

Hon. W. T. Gary, after a hard week's work in Macon in connection with his trial, as a good statesman, is spending Sunday in Augusta. He will return in the morning. Colonel Gary has a host of friends and admirers in Macon. He is a lawyer, a good speaker and a most genial and courtly gentleman.

News Notes.

JUDGE HOYT IS DEAD

Midst His Family, He Passed Away at His Home in West End.

QUIETLY, EARLY YESTERDAY MORNING

The Death of One of Atlanta's Oldest and Most Respected Citizens—The Arrangements for the Funeral.

Judge Samuel B. Hoyt died yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at his home on West End avenue.

His death was quiet and peaceful, so much so that those who stood around the bed hardly realized that the end had come until Dr. Crow laid the pulseless wrist back upon the little body.

It was in 1858 that Judge Hoyt was judge of the city court, and his predecessor was the late Judge Jared I. Whitaker, who vacated the bench to go to the state senate. Judge Hoyt's going to the state senate too. The city court bench was abolished while Judge Hoyt was presiding.

The funeral will take place this afternoon from the Central Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock, and the remains will be laid to rest in the family burial grounds in Oakwood cemetery. The cortège will leave the family home at half-past 1 o'clock and will move direct to the church. The service will be composed of gentlemen who have been up in Atlanta with Judge Hoyt and who have known him all his life. They are: Judge Logan E. Bleckley, Messrs. Columbus Payne, C. W. Hunnicutt, Walker P. Inman, Thomas M. Clarke, A. N. Wilson, and his faith in Atlanta has led him to make frequent purchases of land, all of which have been in gain, thus proving the wisdom and sound discretion that impelled him to thus add to his property.

Mrs. Hoyt, the wife of the subject of this sketch, is a sister of Mr. W. A. Russell, the well-known tobacconist of this city.

Mr. W. R. Hoyt, who is the only son of Judge Hoyt, one of Atlanta's most enterprising young growers.

Miss Corrie Hoyt, his daughter, is now the wife of Mr. George M. Brown, son of Mr. E. Brown.

Mrs. Venable, the mother of Messrs. W. H. and Sam Venable, is a sister of Judge Hoyt, and his only sister, and survives him.

Judge Hoyt was a cousin of ex-Governor Hoyt, of Pennsylvania.

THE RULES OF PRACTICE

Suggested by the Committee Appointed by the Atlanta Bar.

It will be remembered that near the conclusion of the last term of the superior court a committee was appointed to suggest such rules of practice and mode of procedure as may be proper and desirable since the passage of the act of December 15, 1893. The committee consisted of Hon. W. C. Glenn, chairman; Hon. N. J. Hammond, Hon. John L. Hopkins, Mr. A. C. King and Mr. A. P. Hull. The committee submitted their report in writing to Judge Lumpkin on Saturday.

"Upon consultation," said Mr. Glenn, "with Judge Lumpkin, the committee deemed it best to have their report printed in the name of the members of the bar, as the judge will announce his action at the bar meeting on next Saturday. This is done to give members of the bar an opportunity to make such suggestions in the interval to the judge or members of the committee as they may see proper to make, and also for the information of the members of the bar and others interested in the question.

This is the report submitted:

"Atlanta, Ga., March 2, 1894.—Hon. J. H. Lumpkin, Judge of the Superior Court, Fulton County, Atlanta, Ga. Two of the members of our committee being absent from the city, Messrs. Hammond, Hull and Glenn met at the office of Glenn &amp; Maddox, and, after going over the ground to be covered, decided that it would be best to submit only two rules, which they think will subserve the immediate purpose of their appointment.

"We will adopt the act of December 15, 1893, the duty of the presiding judge to call all cases on the appearance docket of such term authorizes him to fix the time when such calling shall take place. The time of calling should, however, be left to depend upon the particular circumstances of business, etc. It ought to give the defendant a reasonable time in which to summon his witnesses, and at the same time not be so late in the term that it would be difficult to extend this privilege through the whole term and force all these questions on the court for the last. As to the time, therefore, for calling the appearance docket, on consideration of the surrounding circumstances, we have concluded to submit what we call rule No. 2, as follows:

"Rule No. 2. There will be a call of the appearance docket beginning on the 9th day of May, 1894, and continuing until such call shall be disposed of."

"We will seek to bind the court down to any particular time, but as far as possible as the first operation of this rule is somewhat experimental, and therefore merely make a starting point.

"The purpose of the first operation of this act is to bring out the real time upon which the case is to be disposed of, either of law or fact, and that this shall be done during the first term. Defendants may not desire to wait the entire time of the appearance docket to enter demurrers, motions or objections, and the plaintiff having brought the case is not to be waited for it to be disposed of prior to the date for calling the appearance docket; and, hence, we have concluded to submit such as the rule No. 2, as follows:

"Rule No. 2. Whenever a demurrer, motion or objection to pleadings is made by the plaintiff or defendant, upon the filing of the same, the court, at the direction of the clerk to enter such demurrer, motion or objection on the motion docket and the same shall be disposed of as the court shall direct.

"We suggest to you these two rules, not as entirely covering the contingencies which will arise in the practical operation of this act, but rather in the way of starting points, and we may be allowed to suggest, not by way of rule, that the method of conducting this matter.

"A dark horse may come in," he said: "no one can tell. The fight has been stirred up to that extent that the unexpected is liable to happen. Councilmen may change their minds."

NOTIFIED TO MOVE.

Chief Connally Has Served Notices on Ten Houses.

Chief Connally has taken action on a petition presented to him last week which threatens to wipe out a district hitherto populated largely by the demi-monde of the exclusive class.

The petition was sweeping one, and ended in its condemnation on Jenkins street, on Jenkins street, and immediate locality. The petition was signed by eighteen citizens, and was sent to the city clerk a few days ago. It was drawn up in accordance with the regulations governing such matters.

The chief, after looking over the petition, sent official notices to the ten women who kept the reported disorderly houses, notifying them that they must move by today under penalty of being brought before the recorder on charges of keeping disorderly houses.

Many of the houses embraced in this order have been in existence for years, and have been undisturbed for months. The recorder's order is issued only at the instance of property owners and people living in the vicinity, and he regarded it as the only thing left for him.

He has made a tour of the locality, in company with Captain Wright, with a view to seeing for himself the extent of the evil, since sending out the orders, and it is possible that some of the houses will be excused from the moving order. The houses referred to are on Jenkins, Pratt and Gilmer streets.

Three Familiar Figures.

Three young white boys, neither of whom is over thirteen years of age, but who have figured in police circles for many months, Will Kerbow, Will Williams and Albert Ruff, turned up at the city yesterday from a Bohemian tour through the country, and set up their laces and penates on a vacant lot on Marietta street. The boys are all characters and are not unfamiliar at police headquarters.

May Have Been Wrong.

An injustice was probably done Officer Smith in stating in yesterday's issue that the case made by him against the man Brightman for robbing on the street with a man of bad report was for the offense committed several months ago. Officer Smith says that Brightman was seen Saturday afternoon in company with Eleanor Lanier, and that it is for this violation of the law that the case is made.

He was afterwards elected Judge of the old city court.

During the war he was commissioner of the confederate states, a part of the time on the staff of General Joseph E. Brown.

From 1861 to 1867 he filled the position of city attorney.

Five years later he retired from active practice of the law, having been identified with the profession for nearly twenty years.

After giving up active practice he remained in the banking business. He remained in this business for about eight years, realizing a handsome sum of money.

From 1882 to 1884 he served his district, with signal ability, in the state senate, and made a record of which his friends all over the district were proud.

Judge Hoyt, by careful investment, has succeeded in accumulating a large estate, be children on the stage today. She knows thoroughly the lines in more than a dozen plays, and can sing the popular songs as fast as they are written.

She sings and dances like a fairy, and is the youngest soubrette in the country.

The mother of this little lady was a Spanish dancer of note and her daughter has all of her grace in addition to her other gifts.

When a little tot she cried because her mother would not allow her to go on the stage. After much persistence she carried the point and soon became famous in "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

The company supporting her is a good one, and every member of it is a specialty artist. Mr. E. H. O'Connor, who is the leading juvenile with the company, is a favorite here.

For two seasons he was with the lamented Rosina Vokes. He is a handsome young fellow, talented, a graceful dancer and a sweet singer. The company will give a performance every evening and a matinee on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, when one hundred prizes will be given away after each performance.

Custom Tailoring.

It's a wide step from the fig leaf that served original man as Clothing to the elegant and artistic Garments of today. Nineteenth century civilization is epitomized in the daintily exquisite Suits we are now making to measure. Time was, and not so very long ago, when only the wealthy could command such things. Their cheapness here and now is another commentary on the way in which luxurious comforts are getting within the easy reach of everybody.

MR. A. SATZKY.

The above mentioned gentleman is now chief of our Tailoring business. Surprising what an air of nobility and gentility the westerly touch of style—if it's just right—will add to man's Suit.

Not a finger-length more of material, not an extra stitch—just a little tailoring wit does it all. It's the difference between the artist and the dabbler; one cuts scientifically and the other simply chops.

Genius that is genuine counts in all things. Our Clothing is shaped and controlled by utilitarian spirit. The new fabrics are ready for your examination:

BASKET WEAVES, SWIVEL EFFECTS

NATTE SUITINGS, CHEVIOT NOVELTIES

And a host of others at reasonable prices hold out a rosy promise to all men of taste who have ideas of rigid economy.

MEDICAL GRADUATES

Will Walk Out of the Grand Opera House Tomorrow Night, CARRYING THEIR DIPLOMAS WITH THEM

The Atlanta Medical College Will Turn Out a Large Class of M. D.'s—The Programme for Tonight.

The annual commencement exercises of the Atlanta Medical college will occur at the Grand opera house tomorrow evening. And the occasion promises to be an unusually interesting one.

The Atlanta Medical college is an institution of which Atlanta is justly proud. For thirty-five years it has sent forth graduates of medicine who have honored themselves and the alma mater in their chosen profession. Many of the most distinguished physicians in the south hold diplomas from this school of medicine. By virtue of its thorough equipment and high order of instruction it has enjoyed marked prosperity and won a place in the front rank of medical colleges of the country. The attendance this year has been unusually large, numbering about 200, which speaks well for Atlanta and for the college. The students coming from nearly every state in the union to obtain their medical education. The institution is abreast of the times and in keeping with the spirit of the south.

The exercises tomorrow will end the thirty-sixth session of the college. The programme is always interesting and the exercises are always largely attended, and those who are present will be highly entertained.

Hon. N. J. Hammond, president of the board of trustees, will deliver the diplomas to those who have passed satisfactory examinations. The prizes will be delivered by Commodore W. H. Smith, superintendent of the school.

Dr. J. L. Roberts, of the graduating class, will deliver the valedictory.

Wurm's orchestra will furnish music. Seats will be $1.00. The exercises will begin precisely at 8 o'clock.
